Creating a BSF account to register in our class for your first study

First thing to know: There are two BSF web sites: bsfinternational.org is where we go to create an account on their server so we can get the weekly materials, and where we select which specific class (i.e., our class) we want to join. We need to do this process only once. The second site, mybsf.org, is where we go weekly from then on to get the week's lessons and materials. These instructions just deal with the initial registration.

Also, there are two parts to registration: Getting a BSF account on their server and getting registered into our particular BSF class and group. These instructions deal with both phases.

I go into (excruciating) detail, so please bear with me: It's nowhere near as hard or tedious as it looks.

Create a BSF account on the BSF server

First, check to make sure whether you already have an account or not:

1. Go to https://login.mybsf.org. Enter your email address and if you have a BSF password, enter that. Click Sign in. If it works, congratulations! You have an account and you're done.

3. It'll send a verification code to your email. Enter it into the next screen. Then it'll move on to a screen that wants your name and wants you to create a password (see below). This the password you'll use for mybsf.org to get your weekly materials, so remember it. Then click Create.

- 4. After that, it'll ask you for additional information. (I can't show that because I already have an account and can't proceed further, myself.) Just do what it asks and you should be fine.
- 5. When done, you'll have that BSF account, but I don't think it'll take you as far as getting you registered into our specific class and group. That comes below.

Register into our specific BSF class and group

You can also start here, by the way. You can either register in our class first and then create your account at the end of that process, or create your account (above) then register into our class (here).

1. First, go to: bsfinternational.org, click on the 3-line "hamburger" icon in the upper right corner, then click on Find a Group:

2. Click on In Person (NOT Online! Even though our group is online, that button is for something else; don't use it!) then on Next:

3. Enter zip code 78213, click Men, then click Search:

4. Make sure it says "Wayside Chapel ... 1705 NW Loop 410, San Antonio, Tx 78213" then click on Request to Join:

8. Follow the instructions that follow, entering data as requested.

Just to make sure, please take a screen shot and send a copy to our Class Administrator and send me a copy, too.

Alternate method of registering

You'll need to create an account no matter what, but if registering online for this study doesn't work (as above), then simply fill in the Adult Registration PDF form and send to our Class Administrator and send me a copy. (Adult Registration PDF sent separately. It's on the BSF web site, but you probably can't get there yet, so if you need one, let me know and I'll email it.)

Yet another method of registering

Our Class Administrator (CA) has offered to register you into our class and group, himself. But to do so, he needs your name (of course!), email address, phone number, and (oddly enough) age. If you have trouble with the above options, or just want to do it the easiest way, send me this information, I'll pass it on to our CA, and he'll get you registered.

But I don't think that (or the first alternate method, above) get you an account on the BSF server. (After all, you have to create a password for that, and the CA can't do that.) So you'll have to do that yourself, as in "Create a BSF account on the BSF server", above, regardless.

Important Note

During the study, you'll get your lessons, questions, etc. from https://login.mybsf.org not from bsfinternational, as above. You'll need to sign in at mybsf using the same email and PW account that you created, above.
